Stoney Creek Presbyterian Church

HABS No. SC-603

Location: On South Carolina Secondary Road 286, in McPhersonville, Hampton County, South Carolina

Date of Construction: c. 1833

Architect/Designer:

Present Use: Not in use

Significance: Stoney Creek Presbyterian Church is architecturally significant as an antebellum Greek Revival Church with later 19th century alterations and as a summer chapel for low-country planters. Rectangular in shape, this wood and weatherboard structure has four columns supporting a gabled pedimented portico. An octagonal steeple, with a small gothic traceried window above the door., was added c. 1890. Arched windows with exterior blinds were also added c. 1890.
